The Need Of Repose.

What this country needs more than anything else is repose. We cannot have a restoration of confidence until public opinion rises to the demand of this exigency and crushes the muck-rakers, the demagogues and the leaders high and low, who are seeking to climb into places of power over the ruins of reputations and of fortunes. Confidence is not plan of quick growth. It will return slowly. The crushing blow to stock market values and to the industries of this country has been a blow also at the dinner-pail. When the dinner-pail is empty the working man is idle, and he will have abundant time for reflection. Then he will turn away in wrath from the demagogues with silver tongues who have done naught but deceived him.—Leslies weekly.

WAS A MOST DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

Given by the Masonic Lodge at Hardinsburg, on Last Friday Night.

Hardinsburg, Dec. 30.—One of the most delightful affairs ever given in Hardinsburg was the Masonic Banquet by Breckenridge Lodge No. 67, Friday evening, Dec. 27, at the Masonic Hall. Every detail had been perfectly planned and was perfectly carried out.

While the wants of the inner man were being satisfied by an excellent menu, the artistic sense was appealed to by the beautiful arrangement of the banquet hall. The color scheme of red and green was effectively carried out by a graceful combination of Christmas bells and bunting mistletoe and poinsettias. The soft glow from dozens of red candles and tiny sprigs of mistletoe tied with red ribbon, gave the necessary touch of color to the snowy lengths of tables placed in the form of cross.

After the guests had feasted upon the delicious viands set before them, and each course seemed more perfect than the last, they had the pleasure of listening to some very entertaining after dinner speeches. The toasts, "Our Homes", "Christmas", "Fraternity" and "The World and What It Thinks", responded to by Messrs. Whitworth, Moore, Bruington and Pile, respectively, were thoroughly enjoyable and the lodge was proud of her members and guests who are always equal to any occasion. The Rev. Cline, Judge Moorman and Mr. W. J. Piggott were called upon and each responded in his characteristic way and added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

Mr. Coleman E. Haswell presided as toast-master and admirably filled the position, the right man in the right place.

Those who were so fortunate as to attend, were loud in their praise of every feature of the banquet and all agreed it was only another proof that Breckenridge Lodge No. 67, never does anything by halves.

The committee in charge feel that they wish to thank the ladies who assisted them, knowing that it could not have been a success without their aid. Ninety persons were present at the banquet. It was elegantly served by Leslie Walker.
